Planet Willi

On Diversity Day, the children of the 3rd grade dealt with the topic "disability".

We invited the children's book author Birte Müller, who read her book "Planet Willi" to the kids and discussed the pictures with them.

Willi is her son who was born with Down syndrome.

Very vividly, Mrs. Müller shared stories about Willi and her family life - most of them positive and funny, but some sad ones as well.

After the reading, the class discussed the ways in which we experience, think and act the same way as Willi and those in which he is different than most of us.

Finally, each child painted their planet with things and people that are important to them.
